Grand and things went so well that Charles Armstrong, the director, expressed great satisfaction. So earnest are the performers that two rehearsals were held Sunday, one in the afternoon in the Elks' club and a second in the evening in the theater.
The end men are all up in their jokes and promise some genuine fun and entertainment to the audience this evening. The stage settings will be beautiful and in keeping with the patriotic nature of the program.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock, the minstrel men will participate in the Red Cross parade, the end men, producer and interlocutor appearing in the regulation minstrel garb of dusters and silk hats.

Mr. Armstrong announces that the curtain will rise on time and proposes to demonstrate that an amateur performance can start on time as well as a professional show.

In addition to the first part, program of which has been published, the following features are scheduled for the vanderbilt olio which is to follow:

Classic soloist, Miss Flora Hagun.

Everything in fun.

Elks' Harmonizing Trio, in a melange of popular songs. J. H.

mstrong.

makes the body very weak.

lief and is a great help to Nature.
